I'm guessing these are also probably interchangeable with a number of other calibers, but I don't really know which. Any color would work. Thanks!

All of the men's Curvex calibers use the same hand sizes.

How wide is the dial?

Great question. I don't have the watch in my hands yet. It occurred to me that that might be an issue, but wasn't sure if they were all similar enough that Gruen only used one length in the 330 era. But I think this might be one of the wider ones. I'll find out for sure within a week or two.
