Well, I will say one thing... the case is the rare aspect. Likely more rare than solid gold 311s. I also figure that the dial is not a major issue to the watch; it likely can be fixed without altering value negatively.

I also didn't pay his initial asking price. Mark came down without much back and forth.

Once this is cleaned and running right it'd be nice as is. Hopefully in the coming year or so, I'll run across an appropriate dial for it.
