The show was this weekend; Friday and Saturday.

It gets smaller each year, but this year there had a good crowd and we had new dealers from in and out of state. I shared a table with Art Bissel. He only stuck around for the one day. I did both days and sold two watches on Saturday. Bought mostly tools and one watch. Sold a Gruen Quadron I restored.

Here is my view from our table; although it looks sparse, this was just prior to opening on Friday morning:

Sitting across from Art and I is Bert, a fixture in the Boulder Horological Society. I've had some interesting and fun conversations with him.
