

---

Subject: Ladies All Star H, I think
Posted by Visual\_lace on Tue, 12 Jul 2016 17:11:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I saw in another post that a watch like mine was called an All Star H, circa 1952. Those 50s ladies must have been bony; the bracelet is tiny compared to a modern watch!

---

File Attachments

---

1) IMG\_20160712\_112307197~2.jpg, downloaded 2426 times

Subject: Re: Ladies All Star H, I think
Posted by Barney Green on Tue, 12 Jul 2016 17:16:17 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

You are perfectly right. This model was first introduced as a member of the All Star series in 1952 and most often advertised as the "H". Later the dial was changed and the watch was sold as the Veri-Thin Faith. As you have probably seen in the other thread I do have the later version...

So there is not much more I can add unless you have a specific question that is not yet answered.

Nice watch!

---