Well, she is at the watchmaker. Getting a COA and a new mainspring (she had an older type, whatever that may mean :?). And a new crystal (removing the bulbing plastic one.

And i removed her strap. Time to get a proper ribbon one. But... now I need a green gold clasp. 10mm, but I wont fuzz about a bit smaller or bigger example. If I cant find one, she will get this yellow one.

Doe anyone have one for sale?

When there's a new post in the For Sale/Wanted area I get excited, hoping it will be something I want or something I can supply. This particular request is so far beyond my spare parts drawers that I'm just shaking my head. I really hope that you're able to get it, the watch is beautiful and she deserves the matching clasp!

:d yeah, this might be a wild-goose chase. I dunno if they even exist in green gold...

And the watchmaker was also a bit enchanted by the watch. He put her halfway the waiting line.

Because you have a template there's always lost wax. Having one created isn't nearly as expensive as I thought it might be and this company does do green gold. I'm sure there are others. Just a thought...
