Very nice! The Trooper brothers.....

Too bad that Cary's images have been deleted from the server he was using to host.

Also, nice to see that the Wadsworth Serial number scheme is still holding up to the test of time.

Is it possible, that the Curvex Trooper was the watch with leather strap, and the same watch was called Curvex Colonel when it was equipped with a metal expansion band?

It would also be quite unusual if the solid gold version would have the same name, but I have not seen an ad for the solid version. Any one here who knows more?

That is certainly a possibility.

Found this 1941 ad that includes a gf Colonel (bottom right corner) with expansion band...sure looks like a Trooper to me.

Maybe you can work some of your magic to enlarge and make the print more readable?
It wouldn't be the first time Gruen changed the name based on band type.

THE NEW GRUEN CURVEX!
is unquestionably the most flattery watch you could wear today. The secret's in its patented Gruen Curvex movement. This "miracle" movement actually curves, with the ultra-smart curved case, making possible all working parts for exceptional precision and thinness.

THE NEW GRUEN VERI-THIN:
is the most popular wristwatch made today. And—a marvel for accuracy and long life. You see, its working parts have all-important lignes—but so ingeniously are they arranged that the watch is made half again as thin at the sides and ends.

"THE PEAK OF WORLD WATCH STYLES!"
That's what America's ace fashion designers designate Gruen. And the Gruen Curvex and Veri-Thin are two chief reasons. See the latest models now—at your Gruen jewelers.

Yes, I have compared about 10 ads for each watch (Trooper and Colonel) from 1941 to 1945 and could not see a difference. Earlier ads showing the Trooper are talking about the availability of a flex version and ads of the Colonel are talking of a leather strap version vice versa but both without naming the other version.
